The A. Blikle confectionery next to its "Cukiernia A.Blikle" or Café A. Blikle on the Nowy Świat, is highly reputed to serve up the best pastries in Warsaw, blended from Polish and French recipes since its founding by Antoni Kazimierz Blikle in Warsaw on 11 September 1869.

Operated by the Blikle family for five generations, this 143 year old Polish institution bore witness to many important milestones in Poland's history, survived the tough times of 2 World Wars, managed to overcome long years of communist ruling while other private enterprises closed down, all the while serving customers.

The company building which was completely destroyed in the Warsaw Uprising in 1944 rebuilt after the war continues to house the original confectionery and bistro and is the centrepiece of the elegant shopping street of Nowy Świat.
